

Latin for Children Teacher Training with Dr. Christopher Perrin

Chapter 3: Noun Declensions, Number, Gender, and Case

Outline:

Latin for Children A, Chapter 3: Noun Declensions, Number, Gender, and Case

- Review:
 - What is a noun? Tell someone next to you what a noun is.
 - What is a verb? Tell someone in the room with you what a verb is.
 - Verbs have person, number, and tense.
- New learning:
 - What is a noun?
 - Nouns have gender, number, and case.
 - Gender: masculine, feminine, neuter (neither)
 - Case: nominative, genitive, dative, accusative, ablative
 - Chant through the noun's declension, and endings.
 - Translate the nouns in the declension. Changes in the ending tells us what the job of noun is.
 - Pre-teach the case and noun jobs.
- Study the maxim for the week.
 - Give context for the maxim.
- More new grammar:
 - Show the dictionary listing for the declined noun.
 - Mensa, -ae, f. table
 - Mensa, mensae, feminine, table
- Study the new vocabulary for the chapter.
- Quickly review what has been taught.